Cultures and Resources

Custom Resources act as a second layer of Resources used for certain higher tier and special units. Some Careers make use of the resource, as well as some Culture specific actions cost the resource.

All Custom Resources are fairly limited though the way of gaining and spending it varies over all cultures and careers.

General

For every obtained player level, the player gains 10 of the culture specific resource.

Empire of Man

- + Diverse and rich army roster.
- + Gunpowder units.
- + Demigrpyhens.
- + Artillery.

- Costly troops

- Accessible Careers:

- Mercenary
- Warrior Priest of Sigmar
- Warrior Priest of Ulric
- Witch Hunter
- Imperial College Wizard

- Prestige:

The Empire of men use prestige for rare troop upgrades like gunpowder units or knights. Certain actions of the Connected Noble as well as the Engineer in Nuln, also require Prestige.

Ways to gain prestige:

- Gaining renown from battles.
- It is possible to obtain it from Prestigious Projects of the Connected Noble in Altdorf costing gold or influence.

- Serving inside an army or as a Hireling also provides a daily prestige gain.
- Clearing hideouts provide a small gain of prestige

Beside high costs and harder ways to obtain, there is no cost attached.

Beside troop upgrades, there are two ways to spend your resources:

Well connected Noble:

The Well connected Noble , Berthold Wendehals, is located in Altdorf. he offers prestigious projects throughout the empire, which manifests the player's Prestige. With massive amounts of gold or clan influence, big one time purchases can be made that increase the Prestige gain. Apart, the connected noble allows you to exchange your Influence for Prestige as much as you need it, at a less beneficial exchange rate.

Apart from the prestigious projects, Wendehals is able to provide you a one time opportunity to get a famous, wanted mount. Be careful, and wise in its usage.

Engineer in Nuln

The Master Engineer in Nuln got clumsy. While he lets anybody help him, he lost the access to all his plans, and needs to restock his laboratories and workshops with necessary prestigious power.

Bretonnia

- + Strong elite cavalry.
- + High levels of Chivalry increases troops morale and reduces knight wages.
- Weak infantry.
- Elite cavalry have a daily Chivalry upkeep.
- Low levels of Chivalry reduces troop morale and increases knight wages.

Accessible Careers:

- Mercenary
- Knight of Bretonnia
- Damsel of the Lady

Chivalry

The Bretonnian society defines itself over Chivalry. Knightly troops cost all Chivalry to upgrade them, also stronger units like Questing Knights or Grail Knights require Chivalry as a Upkeep resource. Chivalry is divided into 7 levels, where the first 4 act negatively on his Party, and 3 act positively on the player party. By obtaining more Chivalry, more and more disadvantages are turned into advantages.

Damsels and Knights both have actions which require Chivalry.

Chivalry can be obtained by Chivalrous acts, like showing mercy, but can be also lost by unchivalrous acts.

Serving in an army or being a hireling does benefit your Chivalry. Being a Hireling also counts as “knightly Service” which scales the amount of bonus over time.

With different amounts of obtained Chivalry, the player party will remove mali which affect the Upkeep of Knight units and the Morale of troops.

Releasing human prisoners after combat is perceived as an act of mercy and provides some Chivalry.

The Levels:

- Unknightly: +75% wage malus, -75% Morale malus.
- Uninspiring: +50% wage, -50% morale.
- Sincere: +25% wage, -20% morale.
- Noteworthy: +10% Knightly wages.
- Pure Hearted: +10 % Morale.
- Honourable: -10% Knightly wages, 10% Morale, 5 Chivalry every day.
- Chivalrous: -20% Knightly wages , 20% Morale, 15 Chivalry daily.

Spending:

Grail Knights and their troop tree will have a daily cost of your cavalry.

Sylvania

- + Obtain a large number of undead units after each battle.
- + They can pass through cursed places without suffering attrition.
- + Can recruit Wraiths (ethereal unit with great physical resistance).

- Dark Energy

Mousillon and Sylvania both use Dark Energy to maintain and upgrade their undead troops. Both use Dark Energy to upgrade troops and maintain their most valuable undead or illfated troops

How to obtain:

- Obtain Dark Energy by NOT taking prisoners or undead after a battle.
- Shrines can be defiled, and be used as an income resource for Dark Energy.

Spending:

- While undeads can be upgraded, at Cursed Sites, obtain XP boosts for undead troops.
- New Magical lores (if obtainable) can be learned via Dark Energy.
- Vampires and Wraiths units will have a daily cost of your Dark Energy.

Asrai (Wood elves)

- + Ranged focus faction.
- + Strong melee units.
- + Treemen and Dryads who have a significant health pool.
- 50% Reduced Party Sizes.
- Forest Harmony is crucial for all the campaign mechanics.

- Accessible Careers:

- Mercenary
- Waywatcher
- Spellsinger

- Forest Harmony:

Forest harmony is dissected into 3 levels, which provide disadvantages for the player, until a certain level of harmony is reached.

- 25% health regeneration
- 50% winds regeneration

Bound:

- 15% maximum health
- 12% health regeneration
- 25% winds debuff

Harmony:

No disadvantages.

Forest harmony is spent on upgrades for the Oak of Ages as well as upkeep and upgrades for certain wood elf troops.

Forest harmony has a slight permanent increase, as long as the Forest of Athel Loren is unharmed by foreign forces.

- The Oak of ages:

The Oak of Ages serves as an upgrade hub for different permanent benefits. To unlock these upgrades, the player has to spend Forest Harmony, and partly needs to reach a certain character level.

Tree Spirits

For 100 points of harmony, you can summon a group of dryads. For 800 to a treemen. You can also relieve them to recover some harmony points (10 per dryad and 100 per Treeman).

Branches of the Oak

You can use your harmony points to increase your party size, maximum health and daily harmony gain. Each branch can be upgraded up to 5 times.

Tree Symbols

Tree Symbols will grant the player a bonus and a malus. They can be exchanged at the Oak of Ages in exchange for some Harmony points.

- Symbol of the Kithband: Increase your party size by 50%. You gain 25% less harmony and your troop wages increase by 15%.
- Symbol of the Wardancer: The player and your companions gain 25% health and recover it 35% faster. Troops recover health 25% slower and you gain 25% less harmony.
- Symbol of the Treekin: Treekin forest harmony upkeep is 50% lower. Elves Wages are 15% higher.

World roots

World roots allow you to teleport between Athel Loren and each of the Old World forests (and vice versa) in exchange for a cost of your Harmony points.

Eonir

- Accessible Careers:

- Mercenary
- Waywatcher
- Grey Lord Wizard

- Council Favor

Similar to Prestige, Council favor is obtained by fighting, clearing bandit hideouts and actions that increase renown and with that prestige.

Council favor could however also be obtained by actions of the Foreign Envoys. The Envoy of the Witchking, will provide you for every prisoner you bring to him a certain amount of Council favor.

Council Favor can be spend on actions of the Envoys, or the upgrades of cityborn troops, as well as certain career actions.

Eonir diplomacy.

The Eonir can make the use of their Council favor, by using it on diplomats, who provide benefits for the cost of more control within the Council. The Empire, the Druchii as well as the Asur, try to take advantage of the Eonir, and provide benefits in exchange of power.

The feature is available after the player reaches Renown Rank 2 and is part of the Eonir culture.

Each action cost and a very few even provide Council Favor. The Cost can be reduced by the level of Charm the player has.

The Envoy of the Witchking:

- Provided Prisoners, can be beneficial for the future relations with the Witchking. Eonir Council respect it. For every prisoner exchange the player gains Council Favor. the amount of favor depends on the strength and tier of the troop

Tactic: Try to flank enemies in battles and try not to alert enemies in hide out missions to make the most out of this perk. Note: The Effect is not added as a factor on the regular damage, but adds a mini second attack. The damage effect is applied correctly if you get the "Stealth Attack!" notification in the text box.

Hawkeyed: Tactic Tipps:

The Zoom in effect can be powerful with the right usage. Quickly zooming in and out will allow to save resources. With enough training even complex shots can become much easier.

Do not hold the zoom key unnecessarily. A well placed shot in an important enemy might be more relevant than the use of another Arrow of Kurnous. Especially if your fill gets increased by headshots anyway...

There is no need to hold the shift key once an arrow is shot.

Starfire Essence:

Your arrows can penetrate shields:

Works not always. And not in every attack angle. Try to face the enemy to have the best result.

Tips: Try to shoot less arrows. The longer you wait the higher is the chance to affect an area of enemies instead of just the target. While not shooting an arrow Every second the chance for an area effect rises by 5% as long as no arrow is shot.

Eye of the Hunter:

Special shot efficiency is doubled:

Hail of Arrows : 1% for every hit => 2% for every hit.

Hawkeyed : Every 6rd shot => 3rd shot

Mechanics

Artillery

Our mod features a number of devastating artillery to be used in battles. For every 50 points in Engineering, the player can place an extra artillery piece. If you hire an Engineer companion, the highest level of the Engineering skill will apply.

- Cannons and mortars are exclusive to characters with imperial culture and to obtain them, the player must go to Nuln and complete the Master Engineer missions. The player cannot operate these cannons. It needs specialized units, such as artillery crew or engineers. Artillery crew and engineer units can be recruited in Nuln, and occasionally in Empire taverns.
- Trebuchets are available for all factions. It can be purchased in any town in Bretonnia that has a woodwork workshop. This artillery can be handled by any unit, specialized Engineers aren't required.

Blood Kiss and Career changes

Any character from any faction who has the Mercenary Career can receive the Blood Kiss. The Blood Kiss is a mechanic to turn a human into a vampire. This action is irreversible. To receive the Blood Kiss, the player must have a tier 4 clan, serve a vampire faction and speak to the vampire faction leader:

- Mannfred von Carstein of Sylvania to become a Von Carstein.
- Wallach Harkon of the Blood Knights to become a Blood Knight.
- Zacharias the Everliving of the Scribes of the Grimoire Necronium to become a Necrarch.
- As a Bretonnian Knight, Maloubard the Serpent can be consulted to get turned into a Knight of Mousillon.

The Blood Kiss will also change the physical appearance of your character.

Books

Books can help you increase some stats effortlessly. You can buy books by speaking in a town with anyone who teaches you magic (Magister, Dark Magister, etc.).

You can read a book by hovering the mouse over the book icon, and clicking on the magnifying glass that appears in the description.

If you hover the magnifying glass over the XP icon in the description, it will tell you the statistic that will increase after reading it. You will read the book progressively as you travel or wait. You can't read the same book more than once. The progress of reading the book will be indicated in the message screen at the bottom left.

The experience that the book will give is conditional on your ability to learn said skill (your focus and attribute points).

Companions

Cursed Sites

Some areas of the map suffered from an unfortunate event in the past, which is why they are considered cursed areas. In these regions, troops and the player will take damage as the player passes through them. To avoid being affected, you can go to its specific location and purify them, which will give you temporary protection to avoid its harmful effect. To purify it it is necessary to be a follower of some religion (have prayed before).

If you are a necromancer or a vampire lineage, you can use these cursed locations to your advantage. By spending your special dark energy resource, you can summon wraiths that will be added to your army.

No army led by a character of Vampire Count or Mousillon culture will suffer attrition from crossing the cursed sites.

Customized Bandit Parties

The player can increase or decrease the number of bandits on the map, just go to TOR_Core > ModuleData > tor_custom_xmls > tor_config.xml and change the following values:

Damage System

In TOR, units can deal and have resistances to certain types of damage:

- Physical: This is the damage of the vast majority TOR weapons and some spells.
- Magical: Some artifact weapons and most spells deal magic damage.
- Fire: Dealt by special guns and most bright magic spells.
- Holy: Dealt by most prayers and certain holy weapons.
- Lightning: Heaven wizards and higher level damsels use this damage type.
- Frost: Dealt by Ulrican Prayers.

If a certain weapon or unit type possesses non-physical damage effects, their damage can be split into categories. For example spells deal full damage, aligned to the element of the magic in use.

- Buffs, debuffs and resistances

Certain magical gear or abilities can enhance damage dealt, reduce damage taken or enhance a particular damage type. In a playthrough you may be able to, for example, both enhance the use of Bright magic while also reduce damage taken from Dark magic. It is important to note resistances and damage buffs must match the damage type they are blocking or enhancing.

Certain buffs and spells are only beneficial to certain attack types, which can include spell damage, melee damage or ranged damage. Only the benefits that match their attack type will be considered for the hit.

Wardsave is a special form of resistance. Wardsave acts last on the damage calculation, reducing the overall damage by a certain percentage.

Detailed Troop Information

In the party tab or in the encyclopedia, by hovering your mouse over the icon that has the letter “i” inside a gold circle, you can now check the unit stats. This information will show the unit's HP, the attack of each of his weapons and the abilities or resistances if it has them.

Discipline and new player skills.

New skills have been introduced in TOR to accommodate the new mechanics.

- Faith: This attribute is related to the battle prayers and the different shrines that are on the map. The more power this stat has, the more new prayers will be unlocked and will give you a small Wardsave bonus. This stat can be improved by praying at altars and using battle prayers in combat. Vampire or necromancer characters will not be able to benefit from this statistic.
- Gunpowder: In style of statistics like bow or crossbow, gunpowder is linked to the use of weapons, specifically firearms; and it improves in the same way. If you are a newbie and do not have enough gunpowder skill to use your first firearm, you can improve your skill through books or search for the Old Rifle among the goods of the wandering merchant.
- Spellcraft: This skill will allow you to unlock and upgrade magic spells. Careers that are incapable of using magic will not be able to benefit from this statistic.

● Forest spirits

Choosing the Spellsinger career, or having a companion who is one. You will be able to approach the Oak of Ages and commune with the forest. Which will mean that units of forest spirits (dryads and treemen) can be added to the player's army in exchange for their harmony points. Likewise, you can also relieve these forest spirits to recover harmony points.

● Magic and Spellcraft

Some careers have access to magic, allowing the user to use different spells in combat. These spells cost Winds of Magic (WoM). If you run out of WoM, you won't be able to cast any more spells. WoM are recovered naturally on the campaign map, while you travel or wait. Your companions have their own WoM, if you go to the spellbook you can see your companion WoM in the top.

There are different magic lores. Each one with their different spells. The existing lores are:

- Lore of Beast.
- Lore of Fire.
- Lore of Heavens.
- Lore of Life.
- Lore of Light.
- Lore of Metal.
- High Magic.
- Dark Magic.
- Necromancy.

You can check the spells and their effects here.

These lores will be limited by careers. Some careers may only have one lore, while others may have more than one. To learn magic, you must go to the magister of your culture who can teach it to you:

- For Imperial culture and any mercenary career, speak to the Magister in any empire town.
- For Vampire Counts and Mousillon culture, speak to Dark Magister in Castle Drakenhof, Waldenhof or Castle Mousillon.
- For Bretonnian Damsels, speak to Fay Enchantress in Castle Bastonne.
- For Asrai Spellsinger, speak to Wise Spellsinger in any Athel Loren town.
- For Eonir Grey Lords, speak to Spellinger of the Faniour, in the lord's hall of Tor Lithanel.

In addition to this list of lores, there's also the Minor Magic. This group of spells does not count as lore. This magic is designed to provide initial help to the wizard, while unlocking other lores.

You can activate and deactivate your spells by clicking on their respective icon within the spellbook.

The following careers can't use magic: Blood Dragon, Witch Hunter, Warrior Priest (Sigmar and Ulric), Knight of Bretonnia, Knight of Mousillon and Waywatcher.

The Winds of Magic regeneration has penalties while wearing heavy armor ( up to -85%), a limitation that affects the vast majority of Warhammer spellcasters.

● Magic Items

Usually with a purple background, magic items come with a special effect, which can be read by hovering over the blue icon at the bottom of their tooltip. Those magic items often amplify the wearer's magical abilities or offer additional protection. The player can acquire them by visiting vendors around the Old World or winning battles against the owners of such items.

● Necromancy.

Necromancy provides a custom feature for certain careers and races, the ability to raise the dead. Having access to these magics means that you will have the option to raise the dead after battles to bolster your armies, as well as visit specific locations on the campaign map to recruit higher-tier undead units such as wraiths.

● Post battle units.

● Raise Dead.

The careers of necromancer and vampire bloodline (Von Carstein, Blood Dragon and Necrarch) can raise the undead skeletons of enemies fallen in battle and add them to their armies. These skeletons will have their own troop tree and will have no upkeep cost. If you are a Blood Dragon, there is a small chance that you can also raise a Blood Dragon unit.

● Religions.

Throughout the map, you can come across shrines dedicated to several of the gods of the old world. Praying to each of these gods will grant you different temporary blessings. The stronger your devotion to that god, the greater his blessings.

In the current update, 11 religions are implemented and each provide their own unique blessings.

- Sigmar, the Uniter of Mankind, provides a prestige buff.
- Ulric, the fierce god of battle and destruction, the patron of wolves and the spirit of winter, provides a greater increase of experience after battles.
- Shallya, the goddess of healing, mercy and compassion, provides a health regeneration buff for party members.

- Manaen, the god of the seas and the creatures that inhabit them, provides a lightning damage buff.
- Taal, the All-father of the human gods, patron of hunters, provides a movement buff when the party is travelling through forest terrain.
- The Lady of the Lake, the chief goddess of Bretonnia, provides a daily chivalry gain buff for all the bretonnians.
- Loec, the patron of the wardancers, Loec is the god of trickery, music, revelry and Joy. Provides an increase in movement and attack speed.
- Isha, the mother of the elves and of all the noble creatures of the world. Goddess of crops, fertility, healing and nature. Provides an increase in your winds of magic regeneration.
- Kurnous, the spirit of the untouched forests, god of the forests, master of each and every wild animal and beast and virgin land. Provides a physical attack bonus for your troops.
- Vaul, the armorer of the hosts of heaven, the god of forge, metallurgy and the patron of artisans, blacksmiths and armorers. Provides a physical resistance bonus for your troops.
- Anath Rhema: the sister of Khaine, and Goddess of the Savage Hunt. A random item of looted items gets 7 additional copies.

Nagash's followers cannot benefit from any religion.

Religious Units: Flagellants, Wolf Kin and Pilgrims are units associated with Sigmar, Ulric and the Lady respectively. They can appear praying at these altars if your devotion to these gods is high.

Miracles: Having 300 in the faith skill, miracles can happen when praying, which consist of the possibility of obtaining a legendary weapon given by the god himself. In the current version of the game, there are only 3 weapons implemented, more will be added in the future. These weapons are:

- Twin Tailed Comet mace, praying to Sigmar.
- Axe of Taal, praying to Taal.
- Sword of Lyonesse, praying to The Lady of the Lake.

● RoR - Regiments of Renown.

In certain locations, you will find a RoR icon above a settlement. At these locations, you will be able to recruit a special regiment of troops that will not be available anywhere else on the map. To recruit them; you need to have the culture of the faction they belong to, or have clan level 4.

There is a punishment for ending your service early, a minimum of 20 days must pass before you can leave the army without penalty.

While you are Hireling, you can follow 5 activities unique to your career. Those activities are building up additional skill points, without your need to actively skill them.

You won't obtain skill XP while you are being wounded. Stay Healthy.

- Special mounts and items.

Mounts:

Special mounts can be obtained as very rare battle loot and can be sold by the wandering merchant. However, in the special case of the Demigryphs, can be purchased in Altdorf speaking to the Connected Noble in the Lord's Halls. You need to be Imperial and spend 1000 prestige points.

Items:

Many of the magical items are for sale by the wandering merchant. Others, such as firearms, can also be used on rare occasions, but the most reliable way to obtain them is to be of imperial culture and complete missions for the master engineer of Nuln. # Vampire - Blood Knight

Blood Knight

Sired by Abhorash, the Blood Knight is a dark mockery of everything noble or virtuous that can be said about their mortal counterparts. Where before the Blood Kiss there was honour is now cruelty; faith turns to irreverence and duty falls to wanton ambition. This is true of all vampires but seems particularly tragic for the fallen knights of the Old World.

All Necrarchs are dedicated towards one single goal, furthering their necromantic power; hiding away from civilisation they endlessly study and practice their foul magic. Necromancer

While many of these dark magisters serve under immortal vampires, it is actually the study of death and undeath that predates the vampire. Necromancers dedicate their lives researching the ultimate question facing every mortal; how to live forever? To the philosophically virtuous necromancer, vampirism is but one of the more successful failures at answering this question. The true answer is believed by these fell scholars to lay in study and innovation of the work of Nagash, the first and greatest necromancer of all time.
